The Japanese, it is said, are using shells charged with a very high explosive and are using every effort to drop them in the basin holding the bay and the town. Part of the Japanese plan is now believed to be seemed to be to concentrate such a heavy fire on the inner harbor that the warships there will be forced to put to sea and fight in the open.

A CONFESSION OF WEAKNESS?

Official St. Petersburg is undergoing mingled emotions just now. While the defense put up at Port Arthur has encouraged everybody and caused the Czar to telegraph warm congratulations to the Viceroy and officers on land and on the warships at Port Arthur, especially over their frustrating of the Japanese attempt to block the mouth of the harbor, the withdrawal of Admiral Alexieff to Harbin is generally looked upon as an admission of weakness.

Some go so far as to say that it indicates the inability of Port Arthur to make a sustained defense.

JAPS FAIL TO CLOSE UP PORT ARTHUR.

PORT ARTHUR, Feb. 25 .- At about 1 o'clock yesterday morning the Japanese made a desperate attempt to block the entrance of the inner harbor and dock. With this object four merchant steamers accompanied by torpedo vessels were sent from two sides toward, the entrance of the channel.

The movement was perceived by the Retvizan, which was lying in the channel, and which opened fire immediately. At the same time the guns of the forts on the Tiger peninsula, Golden Hill and Electric Cliff were turned upon the enemy, and a furious cannonade ensued, lasting until 5 o'clock in the morning. Then the firing slackened and became

The cruisers Bayan and Novik pursued the Japanese torpedo flotilla. It is said that one of the torpedo boats was sunk.

At about 9 o'clock on the morning of Feb. 24 a Japanese squadron of considerable size approached Port Arthur and the Bayan and Novik were ordered to face the Japanese ships, which, however, did not open fire, and afterward steamed away in the direction of Port Dalny.
